Treaty With Austria Signed
Yesterday in Simple Ceremonies, Arthur Hugh Frazier Acting for United States.

By the Associated Press.
BERLIN, Aug. 25.—The treaty of peace between Germany and the United States was signed here at 5 o'clock this evening.

The signing occurred in the office of Foreign Minister Rosen in the Wilhelmstrasse, around the corner from the offices of the American Commission.

The function occupied about 10 minutes.

Ellis Loring Dresel, the American commissioner, who was seated opposite the Foreign Minister at the latter's desk, signed both copies of the treaty first and then pushed the document across the desk to Herr Rosen, who affixed his own signature.

The German Foreign Minister in signing expressed gratification at this step for the resumption of friendly relations between the two nations, Dresel replying with reciprocal sentiments.

Treaty in Three Articles.

The treaty consists of three articles, the preamble citing sections 1 and 5 of the Porter-Knox peace resolution. Article one says:

Germany has undertaken to accord to the United States, and the United States shall have and enjoy, all the rights, privileges, indemnities, reparations or advantages specified in the foregoing joint resolution of the Congress of the United States of July 2, 1921, including all the rights and advantages stipulated for the benefit of the United States in the treaty of Versailles which the United States shall fully enjoy notwithstanding the fact that such treaty has not been ratified by the United States.

Treaty Expected to Be Made Public in Washington Today.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—The text of the peace treaty between Germany and the United States is expected to be made public by the State Department today. The writing of the treaty and the preliminary negotiations were in secret.

The signing of the peace treaty in Berlin today marks the culmination of a series of events extending over the better part of three years to establish formal peace between the United States and Germany.

After the prolonged negotiations at Paris in 1918 the United States became a signatory to the treaty of Versailles, making peace between Germany and the allied and associated powers. But the United States failed to ratify this pact and the two nations still nominally at war.

To end this condition the Porter-Knox resolution was passed by Congress and signed by President Harding on July 2 last, declaring terminated the state of war with Germany entered into by the United States on April 6, 1917—four years and nearly five months ago. Shortly afterward instructions to negotiate a pact with Germany under this resolution were sent to Ellis Loring Dresel, United States Commissioner in Berlin, and in mid-July the negotiations were taken up in the German capital.

DORMAN ADMITS
HE KILLED WIFE AND BURIED BODY

Makes Confession to Granite
City Police and Newspaper
Reporters Following Conference With Son.

FOLLOWED HER NIGHT
OF MURDER, HE SAYS

Tells of Returning to House for Spade After Attacking Woman and Burying Her in Wheat Field.

Arthur Dorman confessed to Chief of Police Clark and newspaper reporters, in the Granite City police station this afternoon, that he killed his wife, Nora Dorman, whose body was found buried June 16 in a wheat field near Granite City, and that he buried the body there.

The confession followed a long conference with his son, John, who was arrested with him, and who had told the police of a confession of the crime, made by his father to him. Dorman announced this morning that he wished to "tell the truth" about the case, but he did not consent to make an unreserved statement until afternoon.

Dorman said he was earning $33 a week, and his son was earning $105 a month, in their work for the National Lead Co. at Granite City, and that they gave their money to Mrs. Dorman, who, however, was unable to keep the family of five on their means. Dorman believed this was because she was spending the money away from home. They were in constant straits, he said, that the five had to live in one room, with two beds, in the house at 1801 D street.

Saw Her Meet Man.
"All she gave John and me was $1 a week each," Dorman said. "She went to work as a waitress, though I protested against this. She said she had to have money for clothes."

"She began primping up, and told me I was 'not the one man.' The night of June 15, I followed her when she left the house. I saw her meet a man beneath a large tree. This man was not the one with whom I had seen her before. (Dorman has said that his wife was seen several times with a taxicab chauffeur.)

"When I came up, the man ran away. She jumped forward, and swore at me, saying 'You dirty—what did you follow me for?' 'Gentlemen,' said Dorman, 'I saw red. I grabbed her by the throat. I lost my head.'

"I remember running back to the house and taking the spade from the garage. I was sure she was dead, and I returned and dug the grave and buried her."

After Dorman had signed the confession he was taken with his son to the Edwardsville jail for safekeeping. This morning, in the presence of his son, Dorman called a police sergeant to his cell and said: "I want to talk with Chief Clark. I want to tell the truth and clear up the whole thing, but I want you to understand I am not doing this because I've been sweated by the police."

When Chief Clark arrived at the police station a few minutes later he said he talked with Dorman in his cell last night and Dorman said to him that he was ready to tell the truth, that others were implicated, but that his son, John, was innocent. Questioned further by Chief Clark, Dorman said he did not mean to say that others had a direct hand in any crime, but he said that before telling the whole truth he wanted to know what the law would do to men with whom his wife had been associating. These men, he said, were indirectly responsible for what had happened. He also said he wanted to be assured that his three children would be properly taken care of if he should tell the truth. After asking these questions he said he was not ready to make a statement and wanted more time to confer with his son, John.

The proving of the corpus delicti is a problem which is puzzling the Granite City police. The body, now buried in a cemetery, was not identified, but it is believed its condition will prevent identification. The difficulty is increased by the fact that the clothing and the woman's seven false teeth were burned by the coroner after the body had been erroneously identified as that of Mrs. Serena Gilliland.

French Operations May

PLANNED TO BUY
STRING OF BANKS

Dictographs in Hotel Rooms of French and Tapping of Telephone Wires Helped in Revealing Deals.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—With $29,000,000 in stocks, bonds, notes and other securities—some good and some bad—in their possession, Federal agents today reprieved their search for the end of the golden rainbow which John W. Worthington, Charles W. French and their associates spread across the country in what the agents believe to be one of the greatest "swindle trusts" on record.

Col. John V. Cunnin, assistant United States District Attorney, in charge of the investigation, today filed $50,000,000 as a conservative minimum for the total operations. Twenty companies said to have been organized by French with a capital stock of $21,000,000 are under investigation.

A scheme for buying a chain of banks throughout the country—without the investment of any money—to handle the alleged spurious notes and securities, is said to have been uncovered.

With the voluntary appearance at the Federal hearing today of H. L. Thorburn, who is characterized as the "dummy" president of a small Wisconsin bank purchased by French's ring, Cunnin revealed the wires which led from John W. Worthington, so-called "master mind" of mail robberies totaling $6,000,000 to French and his associates.

Dictograph in French's Room.
When Worthington's office was raided several weeks ago his books revealed numerous deals with French. The latter was indicted, questioned and then released, practically on his own recognition.

He returned to a loop hotel where he maintained a palatial suite. Meantime dictographs had been placed throughout the suite, telephone wires tapped, arrangements made to tap the contents of French's waste paper basket and two Department of Justice agents installed in an adjoining room.

Department of Justice agents were on hand each time a deal was attempted and the persons involved warned in advance.

While that end of the investigation proceeded, the examination of Owen Evans, a former National Bank Examiner, indicted with Worthington in the mail robbery case, was questioned in the belief that his knowledge as a bank examiner might have been utilized by the band for other purposes. Evans, according to Cunnin, made a complete statement, but was unable to explain all the details of the Wisconsin bank's operations.

Harshman, a Milwaukee banker, Worthington's secretary, also under indictment, Harshman turned State's evidence.

Sixty-eight Control of Bank.

Sixty-eight shares of the bank stock—a controlling interest—had been purchased with certificates of deposit obtained from an Ohio man. The home of the bank cashier was also purchased, $2000, one-third of the price, being paid down and a one-year note, due next January, given for the remainder. Thorburn made a full statement as president under Harshman's direction.

The bank stock was then hypothecated with a Madison, Wis. bank. As a result the $2000 paid the cashier on his home was the only money actually involved in the deal.

"It was a plain case of 'kiting,'" Col. Cunnin explained today. "Harshman said that French then sent a bundle of the ring's notes to him with instructions to put them in the vaults and draw out the bank's reserves and undivided profits. Harshman says he refused. I rather believe that he did prevent the kiting of the bank."

Harshman's vague references to the "Ohio man," whose certified checks were used, eventually led us to Z. W. Davis of Cleveland, and Cauton, a director of the Winston Motor Co. Harshman claimed some of Davis' notes given to French and totaling $500,000, were hidden in Harshman's home at Milwaukee. I sent him there yesterday in custody of a secret service man to get the notes.

Mail Clerks Bound and Gagged by Bandits Who Afterward Apologize for Hitting One With Weapon

By the Associated Press.
DENISON, Tex., Aug. 25.—Two masked bandits held up the mail coach of a Missouri, Kansas and Texas Limited train as it entered Denison today. Postal authorities intimated that the robbers' loot might reach half a million dollars.

Two pouches containing registered mail and several sacks of unregistered mail and packages were taken. The bandits boarded the train at Belus, 13 miles south of here, and after securely binding and gagging the mail clerks, proceeded to loot the car at their leisure. As the train neared the outskirts of Denison, it was brought to a stop by a pull on the signal cord and the robbers leaped from the car and disappeared into the darkness. They are believed to have been joined by three other men in an automobile which was seen near the spot before the robbery.

Before leaving the car, the robbers apologized to the mail clerks for striking one of their number, B. J. Polk, over the head with a pistol when he failed to "move fast enough." Polk was not seriously injured.

ONLY AMERICAN
SURVIVOR'S STORY
OF WRECK OF ZR-2

Norman Walker Tells of Sudden Breaking in Half of Airship After Successful Speed Test.

By the Associated Press.
HOWDEN, England, Aug. 25.—Norman Walker, sole American survivor of the wrecked airship ZR-2, today gave the Associated Press the first circumstantial account of the disaster which late yesterday destroyed the great superdirigible and every American member of the crew on board except himself.

Walker was seen at the Howden airfield, near Hull, where he has been brought after the terrible experience through which he passed unscathed. He comes from Commerce, Tex., and was a rider on the ill-fated airship. He is of boyish appearance, 20 years old, and of a wiry build.

"We were all in the highest spirits when we left Howden on the trial flight," he said. "We sailed over the North Sea first and then started down the North coast to Pulham. 'A thick fog developed, so it was found impossible to land at Pulham. In fact, the fog was so dense we were more or less lost, although we knew the general locality."

"We were flying at a height of about 3500 feet, with the wireless keeping in touch with both Howden and Pulham. The ship was behaving finely and there was not a sign of weakness anywhere."

Flight Prolonged by Fog.

BRITISH CEREMONY FOR DEAD PROBABLY WILL BE IN LONDON

All England Stirred by Airship Disaster as by News of Great Reverse for Allies in War Days.

INQUIRY UNDER BRITISH SUPERVISION

King George Telegraphs Admiral of Air Ministry of Grief Over Loss of American and British Lives.

By the Associated Press. LONDON, Aug. 25.—The American and British victims of the disaster to the ZR-2 at Hull last evening will be accorded a great public funeral, probably in London, it is considered certain. The Air Ministry today has the project under advisement and an announcement regarding it is expected.

Meanwhile, all England, profoundly stirred by the destruction of the giant dirigible—the greatest of all air disasters—is giving expression to its deep feeling of mourning for the victims and sympathy for those bereaved. In London, the atmosphere today is somewhat akin to that which followed the receipt of news of a serious disaster during the war days.

Pending the inquiry which, it is assumed, will be of a searching character, attempts to account for the tragedy are merely speculative, but it is recalled that during a nine-hour trial trip on July 17, some of the girders in the middle of the ZR-2 showed weakness which necessitated reinforcement. This work was done immediately at Howden, and experts believed that the weakness in the structure of the airship had been remedied. It is now regarded significant, however, that observers below have declared that the ship was buckling amidships which seemed to precede the explosion which sent the ZR-2 flaming to the earth.

Confidence in the Airship. There has been recently an inclination in some quarters here to oppose lighter-than-air craft as too costly and uncertain, but, with one exception, London newspapers today express confidence that there is a great future for airships. They declare that yesterday's tragic failure should not deter the continuation of experiments until the present stage of progress is passed and safety is established. The trip of the R-34 across the Atlantic and back and the successful airship service maintained between German cities are cited as proofs that dirigibles are of great utility and have immense possibilities.

"From such disasters as this," said the London Times, "all human enterprises have risen more fully equipped for success, and it will be so with the airship."

Commander Brooke Upham of the Research Department, and Maj. Cooper of the investigation branch of the Air Ministry have gone to Hull to investigate the cause of the disaster.

Lord Lee Fareham, first Lord of the Admiralty, this morning telephoned Commander Harry L. Pence, naval attaché at the American embassy, expressing his regret at the loss of American lives in the airship disaster. He extended, on behalf of himself and the admiralty, condolence to their bereaved relatives.

Loss Keenly Felt. It was at Howden, Hull, Leeds and neighboring towns where lived the wives and relatives of many of the men whose lives were snuffed out by the disaster, that the loss was most keenly felt. In these places, too, were the English brides of nine of the American enlisted men, who came to England for the transatlantic flight. These young women had been eagerly awaiting the time for the ZR-2's start for America and had expected soon to follow on board a Government transport to the new home.

The American dead included two members of the American Legion: Lieut. Little and Lloyd E. Crowell, mechanic. Several of the British victims were members of the British Legion of Former Service Men. Both these organizations will be represented at the funeral service.

Not Turned Over to U. S. As the dirigible was still British property, not having yet been turned over to the American authorities, all investigations of the calamity will be supervised by the British Air Ministry.

Foremost among the expressions of condolence was one from King George, his majesty telegraphing from Balmoral to Air Marshal Trenchard, at the Air Ministry, said:

"I am shocked and grieved to hear of the terrible disaster which has befallen airship R-34 (the British number of the big dirigible), resulting with the loss of many valuable lives of Americans and British, with the relatives of whom I sympathize. I shall anxiously await further information."

turned it over to the boatman, but could find nothing else." The body of Lieutenant Charles G. Little, one of the American officers, is today at the Hull infirmary, where he had been removed from the wreckage of the ZR-2. The body of Lieut. Marcus H. Esterly, another American victim, is at a mortuary, and both are being held pending an inquest, which probably will not be held until attempts to take other bodies from the ruins have been made. Lieut. Little was identified by a fellow officer who arrived from Howden, while identification of Lieut. Esterly's body was effected through a wallet found in the clothing.

Harbor officials today expressed doubt that many bodies will be recovered unless they hold fast to the wreckage or are imprisoned in the gondolas. They say they fear the drifting swift current of the Humber will carry them away.

Large quantities of wreckage were found this morning to have been floated up the river by the tide. A diver who went down early this morning failed to locate anything material.

Men engaged in the work of salvage reported at the American consulate today that they had found a body believed to be that of Commander Louis H. Maxfield, in charge of the American contingent aboard the ZR-2, several miles below this city.

Immediately after the disaster John H. Groat, the American Consul; Lieut. Pennoyer, who becomes senior officer of the American detachment, and Naval Physician Taylor, assumed control of the situation for the American Government. They are co-operating in the work of recovering and identifying the bodies and are preparing an official list of the missing.

Lieut. Pennoyer today wired London that the next of kin of the victims of the accident had been advised. So far as has been ascertained, Mrs. Maxfield is still at Amble, near Howden, where she and her husband lived during their stay there.

People of Hull Unraveled. The people of Hull are slowly recovering from the horror of yesterday's disaster at this old North Sea port which has viewed so much of man's attempt to conquer the air. Experts believe that the weakness in the structure of the airship had been remedied. It is now regarded significant, however, that observers below have declared that the ship was buckling amidships which seemed to precede the explosion which sent the ZR-2 flaming to the earth.

Confidence in the Airship. Commander Brooke Upham of the Research Department, and Maj. Cooper of the investigation branch of the Air Ministry have gone to Hull to investigate the cause of the disaster.

Lord Lee Fareham, first Lord of the Admiralty, this morning telephoned Commander Harry L. Pence, naval attaché at the American embassy, expressing his regret at the loss of American lives in the airship disaster. He extended, on behalf of himself and the admiralty, condolence to their bereaved relatives.

Loss Keenly Felt. It was at Howden, Hull, Leeds and neighboring towns where lived the wives and relatives of many of the men whose lives were snuffed out by the disaster, that the loss was most keenly felt. In these places, too, were the English brides of nine of the American enlisted men, who came to England for the transatlantic flight. These young women had been eagerly awaiting the time for the ZR-2's start for America and had expected soon to follow on board a Government transport to the new home.

The American dead included two members of the American Legion: Lieut. Little and Lloyd E. Crowell, mechanic. Several of the British victims were members of the British Legion of Former Service Men. Both these organizations will be represented at the funeral service.

Not Turned Over to U. S. As the dirigible was still British property, not having yet been turned over to the American authorities, all investigations of the calamity will be supervised by the British Air Ministry.

Foremost among the expressions of condolence was one from King George, his majesty telegraphing from Balmoral to Air Marshal Trenchard, at the Air Ministry, said:

"I am shocked and grieved to hear of the terrible disaster which has befallen airship R-34 (the British number of the big dirigible), resulting with the loss of many valuable lives of Americans and British, with the relatives of whom I sympathize. I shall anxiously await further information."

U. S. HAD ADVANCED $1,500,000 OF ZR-2'S COST OF $2,000,000

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—It is possible the United States will not lose financially by the destruction of the ZR-2. The contract under which the dirigible was built by the British Air Ministry provides that Britain shall shoulder half the loss "after delivery and before arrival" in the United States.

The ZR-2, still on trial, had not been delivered to the United States. Capt. Wann of the Royal Air Force commanded her and had conducted the previous tests.

The Navy Department, however, probably advanced $1,500,000 toward construction, out of the $2,000,000 appropriated to purchase the R-33. The contract reserves 25 per cent of the price pending delivery.

So, any money the Navy Department will save $500,000 from the wreck. It can hardly do worse than get back another $500,000, since the British agreed to bear half the cost if anything happened to the ship.

When first seen from Hull the ZR-2 was approaching the city, coming from a southeasterly direction over the Humber toward Hull. When sailing on an even keel above the city, according to some eyewitnesses, a huge cloud of dense smoke burst from the tail of the aircraft. It was thought the ZR-2 was sending out a smoke screen as an exhibition, but to the horror of thousands of spectators, it was seen that she had broken in two and was taking a tremendous nose dive, which apparently would bring her down into the thronged streets.

Then there came a loud explosion and a great crash, followed by another explosion, which was accompanied by the breaking of glass in the windows on either side of the river. It was seen that she had broken in two and was taking a tremendous nose dive, which apparently would bring her down into the thronged streets.

STATEMENT ISSUED BY BRITISH AIR MINISTRY

Report Tells of Operations of Dirigible ZR-2 Up to Time of Wreck.

Statement Issued by the British Air Ministry.

By the Associated Press. LONDON, Aug. 25.—The British Air Ministry last night issued the following report concerning the wreck of the ZR-2.

"An Admiralty representative at Howden reports that he visited the wreck of the airship ZR-2, which lies half a mile south of the corporation pier at Hull. The wreck appears to be in two portions. The whole vessel lies submerged in a northwesterly direction in the river in eight feet of water. The tail portion only is showing, lying in about four feet of water.

"Survivors escaped in a parachute and were picked up by tugs and small boats. Customs officers have been ordered to guard the wreck during the night and air force officers from Howden will patrol the river in a motor launch to look out for bodies which may drift in the river.

"The airship left the Howden base yesterday for its fourth trial under command of Flight Lieutenant Wann. She reported her position at various times throughout the day, and proceeded to carry out different tests which had been arranged beforehand.

"At 8 o'clock last night she signalled the following message: 'Will remain out tonight to complete necessary trials. Several already have been successfully accomplished. Will land tomorrow.'"

"The cruise therefore continued through the night, and at 7 o'clock this morning the R-33 (the old name of the ZR-2) reported that she was flying in the neighborhood of Howden, from which place she had started."

The report then describes the day's operations, including reports of satisfactory progress and a request that the Howden air base fly a kite balloon for a speed trial. The latter message was sent at 3:50 o'clock in the afternoon.

"This," the Air Ministry statement continues, "was followed by a further message time 4:30 o'clock this afternoon, saying, 'Have carried out full speed trial. Landing at Howden at 6:30.'"

The statement says the airship earlier in the day had asked both Howden and Pulham to keep parties ready so that she might land at whichever place she found preferable.

The statement concludes: "The last wireless transmitted from the airship was at 5:34 o'clock this afternoon, when she acknowledged the receipt of routine signals."

TWO HALVES OF ZR-2 FELL QUARTER OF A MILE APART

One Section Resembled Great Tent Flapping on Surface of River, Other Blazed for Some Time on the Water.

Special Cable Dispatch to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

LONDON, Aug. 24.—By courtesy of the Yorkshire Post, the Post-Dispatch is able to publish the following account of the airship disaster from the Post's special correspondent:

"Hull, Wednesday, evening.—The monster airship ZR-2, while passing over this city this afternoon, burst into flames, buckled, broke in two in midair, and after two stupendous explosions which shook the center of the city, dropped into the Humber. The scene was terrifying. It was about 5:45 when the ship, flying at a moderate altitude, was first seen from Hull. She was gracefully sailing over the west central district, and through a sky that had scarcely a breeze, I saw her shake. Then her nose dipped and a puff of smoke arose from her bow, followed by a spurt of flame.

"Women screamed and both men and women sought shelter as we used to do during Zeppelin raids. It seemed to me that just before the explosion the vessel turned in a southerly direction. Doubtless the captain, realizing danger, turned toward the Humber in the hope of descending into the river.

Halves Quarter Mile Apart. "Several eyewitnesses tell me they saw men leap out of the burning mass, turning over in the air before they plunged into the water, and it is believed only one parachute was used.

"About a quarter of a mile separated the two halves of the ship when they dropped in midstream. The half opposite the pier looked like a great white tent flopping on the surface. The half further up the river blazed on the water for some time.

"The whole affair lasted five or six minutes. Very soon after the shattered craft lay on the water, all sorts of tugs and boats were seen to put off to render assistance. There must have been scores. People in thousands flocked to the pier and hundreds of conveyances from all parts of the city drove to the scene of the disaster. Both motor and horse ambulances were quickly on the spot.

"As the first of the few survivors were brought ashore the surging crowd raised a cheer, hoping the loss of life had not been as great as they feared. They seemed overcome with the horror of the situation and were glad of the opportunity of relieving their feelings. Three men picked up from the wreckage, including Capt. Wann, the English officer in command, were taken to the Royal Infirmary. The Captain's condition was extremely grave, as he had been badly injured before the head.

"Craft Steered Toward River. "There can be no doubt that when the ship's commander was faced with catastrophe he steered his burning vessel toward the river. Had he wavered it would have fallen on this old town with consequences that cannot be contemplated without a shudder.

"Gangs of men are clearing the main streets of broken glass and boarding up smashed windows. The air is thick with the smell of burning. An engineer who watched the machine from the moment it appeared over Hull until it fell said its behavior convinced him that fire broke out in the stern and the nose dive was a maneuver to keep the flames from spreading. A few seconds later the ship broke in two."

Daily Mail at Hull after the disaster. "I was seated in the tail of the ZR-2. She first flew over the North Sea and toward Pulham. She was in perfect flying condition until 5:30 o'clock, at which time the controls on the ship were being tested while the vessel was proceeding at high speed.

"I assume that a girder broke amidships. After a few short shocks the ship began to fall and the petrol engine exploded. I saw smoke after the water by a large and taken in the police station."

PARACHUTE BESIDE THE BUNK OF EACH MAN ON THE ZR-2

Plan Was to Leap Off in Case of Accident, but Time Is Believed to Have Been Too Short.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

LONDON, Aug. 25.—Elaborate precautions had been taken to increase the chances of escape for officers and crew of the ZR-2 in the event of accident.

A parachute had been stored beside each man's bunk and also at each of the various places where a man was regularly stationed on duty. Even a special pocket was provided to one of the parachutes for the ship's mascot dog, "Gold Fish," supposed to have been aboard the ship when she crashed.

If they succeeded in doing this the parachutes would open up as soon as they got clear of the ship. The question now is whether the men had a chance of getting into harness and making the jump in the brief moment before the time the ship caught fire and then fell, a blazing inferno.

Though it sounds callous to speak of the financial loss in the ZR-2 tragedy, the question has a certain interest. The American Government, if it had accepted the ship, should have paid the British Government about 1,000,000 pounds.

In addition, the United States was to pay for alterations in the design and construction of the ship, and after the contract was originally drawn up, and also for training and quartering the American officers and enlisted men by the airship section of the Royal Air Force.

Consequently the ship's destruction means considerable loss to the British air service, which has been severely handicapped and certainly since the armistice by lack of funds.

which began to fall, nose downward toward the Humber.

"Immediately after the explosion I was thrown into the cockpit at the tail of the ship. I then attached myself to a parachute and jumped overboard. The rope of the parachute, however, had caught in some wires and I was unable to extricate myself. Shortly afterwards with two other persons I was picked up from the water by a barge and taken to the police station."

Imprisoned 15 Minutes. "The section of the craft in which I was riding remained above water when she plunged into the Humber, and I was rescued, being imprisoned for 15 minutes. I am all I am able to say."

Lieut. Wann denied lying on the river rather than on the air which was crowded by thousands of spectators. The disaster occurred quickly, he said, that any action was impossible.

FOUR AGED POLICE SERGEANTS REDUCED

Men Who Are Past 60 Years Old Will Be Turnkeys and Jail Guards.

Four police sergeants, part of the 80 in the department who have passed the 60-year mark and who were ordered to Headquarters for physical examination last week, as has been told, were reduced to prison guards and turnkeys, yesterday, the Police Board announced last night. The changes were forecast at the time the men were examined and are said to be only the beginning of changes in contemplation by the Police Board, as told in the Post-Dispatch yesterday.

During the physical examination last week the veteran policemen were required to go through a number of tests, including skipping on one foot 45 times and then on the other for the same number of times, and bending over with knees straight and touching the floor with finger tips.

Men Had Long Records.

The men reduced are:

Sergt. John J. Kavanaugh, 60 years old, known as "Babe" because of his portliness and height, recently transferred from the Laclede avenue district to the Angelica street district when Commissioner Philip Brockman observed him standing on a corner too long with his men, reduced to turnkey. Sergt. Kavanaugh, has been a policeman since July, 1888, and a Sergeant since November, 1906. For many years in the days of the "old time" policeman, Sergt. Kavanaugh was a familiar figure in the downtown district where he walked a precinct in Central District. He lives at 4212 W. Evans avenue. He is six feet two inches tall.

Sergt. John Collins, 74, doorman in the office of Chief of Detectives Hoagland, reduced to prison guard. Sergt. Collins has been a policeman since April, 1873, and a Sergeant since October, 1892. He lives at 3214 Dodder street.

Sergt. Thomas Byrne, 63, Carondelet district, reduced to turnkey. Sergt. Byrne has been a policeman since December, 1885, and a Sergeant since November, 1904. He lives at 3650 Cleveland avenue. He is six feet one-half inch tall.

Sergt. Patrick Hannon, 60, Laclede avenue district, reduced to prison guard. Sergt. Hannon was made a policeman in January, 1891, and a Sergeant in October, 1907. He lives at 773 Bayard avenue.

Will Receive $110 a Month.

The four will be paid a salary of $110 a month. This is an increase of $10 for prison guards, but turnkeys have received that amount since the salary increase went into effect. The duties of the two offices are the same.

The reductions leave 15 vacancies in the ranks of the sergeants to be filled by the board when the papers recently filed in an examination of 350 patrolmen at Central High School are graded. This work, it is expected, may take another month.

Thirty probationary patrolmen who have passed the physical examination for the department were to start at the School of Instruction today after being sworn in by President Victor Miller of the board. The training of policemen from now on will not only include the regular routine beat work, but also will include instruction in legal procedure. President Miller will lecture the men in training and also have them listen to talks by the City Counselor, Prosecuting Attorney and Circuit Attorney.

SAYS DEPRESSION HAS HURT FARMER MORE THAN RAILROADS

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 23. — The farmer has been made to suffer by the present depression to a greater extent than either the railroad security holder or the railroad laborer, Clyde M. Reed, chairman of the Western Grain Committee, testified yesterday before the Interstate Commerce Commission. His statement was in reply to a question asked by a member of the commission early in the present hearings.

The grain farmer is receiving wages averaging from 8 to 24 cents an hour, from which he must pay interest on his investment and taxes, said Reed, who is chairman of the Kansas Railroad Commission. He contrasted these wages with the pay of railroad laborers at present, which is 134 per cent higher than in 1914. Reed was the last witness for the grain men in their case before the commission, in which they are endeavoring to get domestic reductions in freight rates. The railroads are expected to consume about two days in the presentation of their testimony, after which oral arguments will be started.

Wrong Address Is Printed.

In the account yesterday in the Post-Dispatch of the revocation of the whiskey selling permit of Abraham Peeler, his address was incorrectly given as 4105 Easton avenue. The address should have been stated as 4301 Easton. The pharmacy of Dr. Easton, known as Peeler's Pharmacy, says it has no whiskey selling permit.

Friday Bargains

SINCE the practice first began of bartering goods to one's neighbors, merchants have had to meet the proposition of disposing of broken lines and odd assortments. Likewise patrons have ever been on the alert for economic purchases commonly termed "bargains." Consequently some shrewd merchant in days gone by seized upon these two desires to offset each other, and Friday, being near the end of the week, as the day on which to do it.

Thus instinctively we come to look to Friday as "bargain day," though now the exceedingly good values to be found there are not always the odd lot type.

We offer here merchandise of our usual high standards, at prices very attractive to Friday shoppers.

OF CREW PICKED UP

By the Associated Press.
SEATTLE, WASH., Aug. 22.—Lifeboats from the freighter, Canadian Importer, began making for land from latitude 29 45 north, longitude 126 25 west, with the ship in a sinking condition, according to a radio message received here today from the Washington Coast Guard.

The Canadian Importer was a Canadian Government Merchant Marine vessel, and left Vancouver, B. C., Aug. 13, for Adelaide, via Auckland, Sydney and Melbourne.

The latitude and longitude given from a point about 432 miles southwest of the Columbia River.

A wireless message before daylight today said the steamer Cordova was standing by the Canadian Importer and had picked up survivors from all but one of the lifeboats. One lifeboat was reported missing. It was further stated that the Canadian Importer was sinking rapidly, her engine room being under 17 feet of water.

RIOTS IN INDIA COST
ONE THOUSAND LIVES

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Aug. 22.—More than 1000 lives, it is feared, have been lost in the rioting in the Malabar district of British India, says an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Bombay received today.

Anxiety is felt for the English women and children in the outlying districts. Several railway stations have been wrecked. Twenty men of the Leinster Regiment at Trivandrum are reported to have been cut off.

It is also reported, adds the message, that the rioting natives are working their way from the interior to Calicut, on the coast.

The center of the riot area appears to be in the district of North Ponnani, 38 miles southeast of Calicut. Many clashes with military forces have occurred. The outbreak is attributed to the British Indian quarters in the work of agitators among the natives in the district.

WORTH WHILE READING

Below is an item which appeared in the Washington Post. This, we believe, is well worth reading and considering at this time.

The amount of Canned Fruits and Vegetables packed this season will be the smallest in many years, and the condition warrants buying now, as we believe higher prices will prevail in the near future.

Larger stocks and better assortments also can be placed before the purchaser at this time than may be possible later on.

The item reads as follows:

"After an extensive tour of eight States, studying crop conditions, Granville Hunt, former chief of the Canned Goods Division of the Federal Food Administration, believes that now is the time for all thrifty and wise housewives to lay in their winter supply of these commodities, that America is liable to suffer a dearth of canned goods, and that with the augmented demand and the limited supply the prices will naturally rise to higher levels."

"The corn packers of Iowa," declared Mr. Hunt, "are packing only twenty per cent of the normal crop. In Wisconsin, where it usually takes from four to six weeks to pack the entire crop of peas, the work was done this year in ten days. This was due to the restricted acreage and the drought. New York packers are preparing to send out only sixty per cent of their normal shipping. So it goes. In Michigan and the upper tiers of corn in Ohio, where fruits and berries are packed in great numbers, the frost nipped the crop, with the result that one can go for miles after mile without seeing trees in blossom. In one of the largest of that section I saw only one cherry tree in bloom and that one of a late variety."

"Minnesota will pack only forty-two and a half per cent of its crop this year. Ohio's crop of peas and tomatoes will be approximately forty-five per cent of what it was last year, if present weather conditions do not reduce it to lower levels. The tomato crop of Hartford County, Me., will be only about five per cent; that is, five per cent available for packing. Over the entire Eastern shore the pack will not be more than twenty-five or thirty per cent. The only answer, as I see it, is for the thrifty housewife to fill her pantry with such commodities as she needs to carry her family through the winter; for prices for these goods may be as high before the snow falls as they were during the war period."—Washington Post.

RAILROAD LABOR BOARD

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—Declaring

secretary of the Illinois Manufac-that it be abolished, in an address

"The railroads asked that the three hundred million dollar wage grab of July 20, 1920, be wiped out," Glenn said. "The Railroad Board, dominated by the brotherhoods, resistently and timorously reduced wages $400,000,000 a year, leaving $300,000,000 excess war wages the railroads—and the public—have to pay. The railroads asked abrogation of the working conditions which add another $200,000,000 a year to the payroll, most of it squandered for work never performed. The Railroad Labor Board has not abolished these conditions."

Glenn declared that the "two million dollar daily toll for which the board is directly responsible is one of the causes for high rent, high fuel, idle factories and general stag-

YOUTH CONFESSES
THREE HOLDUPS
OF KROGER STORES

Louis Bunning, 19, Admits

Grocery Robberies in May

and June and Drug Store

Holdup.

Three Kroger grocery store robberies and one drug store robbery were confessed, the police announced today, by Louis Bunning, 19 years old, who was arrested at his home,

3049 Cass avenue, at 1 a. m.

Lieut. Maloney, who made the arrest and who later questioned Bunning, at the Dayton Street Station, said Bunning admitted that he, with a companion, committed the following robberies:

May 25 last, Kroger store, 4794

Nebraska avenue, Max J. Dean

manager, $39.30 taken.

June 3, Kroger store, 1226 North

Vandeventer avenue, George N.

Hartman manager, $25 taken.

June 7, Kroger store, 2138 St.

Louis avenue, Chester Willmann

manager, $11 taken.

June 15, Isaac S'Renco's drug store, 2947 Washington avenue,

William Rabiner, clerk on duty,

$12 taken.

Does Not Know Companion's Name.

The same drug store was robbed four times within a few weeks, but Bunning insisted that the robbery of June 15, which occurred about 5 p.

m., was the only one of the four of which he had knowledge.

He professed not to know the name of his companion in the different robberies, and said he did not know where the young man could be found.

Bunning said that, soon after the drug store robbery, he and his companion went to Kansas City. At Shelfield, Mo., a suburb of Kansas

City, they were put in jail as vagrants, but they escaped, a feat rendered easy by the fact that the jail was being repaired. They then separated, Bunning said, and he went to Chicago and Milwaukee and looked for work in printing offices, but found none.

Police Were Looking for Him.

He arrived in St. Louis yesterday morning and the police heard of it as they had been looking for him,

on the belief that he was the person described by two of the store managers who were held up. Lieut. Maloney found him in his bedroom, having stationed three policemen outside the Cass avenue house, and Bunning, after looking out of the window, surrendered quietly.

Eighty-nine Kroger store robberies have been reported by managers and employees of the stores in a period of two years. Convictions have been obtained in three cases, and arrests have been made in some other cases.

28 RULES ISSUED
FOR DETECTIVES
IN THE DISTRICTS

All Persons Who Move to Be

Listed by Police and Reports Made of Any Who Arouse Suspicion.

The Police Board today issued a list of 28 rules and regulations to be followed in the re-establishing of the seven detective districts. Some of the rules are new ones, or are stated in a new way, such as the following:

Detective district commanders

shall make a special effort to expose all fake robberies, fake burglaries and other fake crimes, and shall do their best to bring the persons responsible for them to justice.

Detective district commanders

shall make a list of all soft drink places which are suspected of violating the liquor laws or harboring police characters; all pool halls; all dance halls; all hotels and rooming houses suspected of illegal practices, and shall forward such list to the Chief of Detectives, and each commander shall indicate, in his report, his opinion whether any unlawful trade or practice exists in any of these places.

Each detective district commander shall investigate all persons who have recently moved into

WORKS OF ART

Tailleur, cook to Charles VII. of France, was the head of a peculiar school of cookery.

Its pupils became masters of the art of disguising the nature of viands.

Thus, a vegetable made to look and taste like a fish was considered a work of art.

At CHILDS the aim in cooking is to preserve, not disguise, natural flavors.

And works of art are vegetables whose very delicious flavors have been enhanced.

MORSE PUPILS TO GIVE MILK SHOW SKETCH

Children of School to Present
"The Holidays of the Year 1921."

The program which the Children of America Loyalty League will give Saturday evening at the Orpheum Theater for the benefit of the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund offers a great variety of vaudeville sketches and cast. The Morse School of Expression, pupils of which have always generously cooperated in milk fund work, has selected as its part of the evening's entertainment an unusually clever sketch entitled "The Holidays of the Year 1921." These are to be shown as living pictures which Father Time, represented by Miss Josephine Walsh, will introduce. Edith Inselberg and Helen Fleishman are the pages, and the other young enthusiasts who are participating in the number include Delmar McCaskell, Florence Boe, Mary Josephine Rabbit, Georgine Schuessler, Clifford Drews, Earl Hof, William Holste, Ella Roth, Evelyn Mae Hingberg, Billy Turner, Laila Bauman, Lucille Randon, Clara Engel, Susan Hearst and Dorothy Bristow.

"Musical Moments," by Misses Willetta Lundbeck and Margaret Reamer, pupils of Mrs. Anna Drew, promises to be one of the most pleasing numbers on the program.

William Goldman, manager of the Missouri Theater, has given two boxes which will be received by the child who sells the most tickets for the benefit. The other prizes, which were enumerated in yesterday's Post-Dispatch, include a luncheon party for four which the Hotel Statler will give, a five-pound box of candy presented by William A. Schmeckebier Candy Co.; a gold medal and life membership in the Children of America Loyalty League; a Vamp Doll by Mrs. Nat Brown; and a term of lessons by F. Leslie Clendennen.

EAST ST. LOUISAN KILLS WIFE AND HIMSELF

Barber Renews Quarrel After Being Fined for Disturbance on Wife's Complaint.

Frederick Fisher, 46 years old, a barber having a shop at 1643 St. Louis avenue, East St. Louis, shot and killed his wife, Rebecca, 34, in their home at 1602A Missouri avenue, East St. Louis, at 3 p. m. yesterday and then shot and killed himself.

The shootings were the termination of a series of quarrels between Fisher and his wife which had continued for several weeks, and were due, relatives told the police, to intoxication of Fisher on numerous occasions.

His wife recently caused his arrest on a peace disturbance charge and Fisher was fined $5 in a Justice of the Peace court yesterday. The shooting occurred after his arrival home from court.

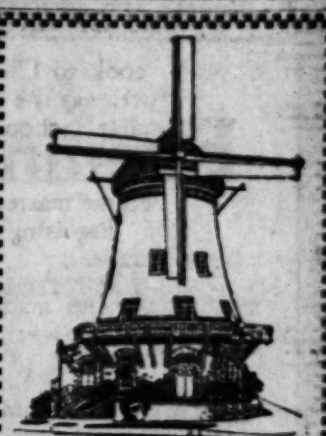

James Heggemann, who is married to a sister of Mrs. Fisher and who lives across the hall from the Fisher home, said that he heard loud voices in the Fisher home for about 25 minutes and then two shots. He and a passerby found Mrs. Fisher lying on the floor of the kitchen with a bullet wound in her neck. Fisher, with a bullet wound in his temple, was lying across her feet. Both were dead.

RESIGNS BECAUSE SONG
BIRDS WERE CAGED

Frank L. Rand of Zoological Society Contends Zoo Board Is Violating Law.

Frank L. Rand of 5685 Cates avenue, acting secretary of the Missouri Bureau of Conservation and Wild Life Protection, has resigned from the St. Louis Zoological Society because seven mocking birds hatched in nests in Forest Park have been placed in one of the zoo bird cages.

Rand asserts that this is in violation of a statute which forbids the keeping of native song birds in captivity. Yesterday he said he was considering the advisability of filing a complaint with the Zoological Board of Control with a view to having the birds liberated.

In Rand's office in the Arcade Building are a number of song birds, some in cages and some uncaged. He explained that keeping these birds in captivity was not in violation of the law, as they are foreign birds.

George E. Dieckman, president of the Zoological Society and a member of the Zoo Board of Control, said the birds were placed in the zoo cage with his knowledge and approval. Most of them, he said, were young birds which had fallen from nests on the Triple A grounds in Forest Park. The mother birds no longer had control over them, he said, and if they had not been rescued they might have been caught by cats, captured by boys or trampled by golf players. Dieckman said that while the keeping of these birds in captivity might be in violation of the letter of the law, he did not believe their housing in the zoo bird cage and their exhibition there for educational purposes would be construed as violating the spirit of the law.

Used Cars and auto accessories are being sold through Post-Dispatch Wants.

No trace has yet been found of Morris Miller, 31 years old, of 821 Academy avenue, president of the recently organized Millbeck Co. (Inc.), which is endeavoring to carry out its plan of acquiring a lease on a four-story building at Tenth and Olive streets for a furniture establishment.

R. A. Evans, 41414 Maffitt avenue, who had been engaged by Miller to handle the furniture store, told the police that Miller had informed him he was going to Belleville to sign contracts for the furnishing of a hotel there. Miller was in the habit of carrying a large sum of money with him, and Evans told him to drop it when he last seen. His clothes and personal belongings are still at his place of residence.

At the Union House Furnishing Co. where Miller was formerly employed, it was said that he had been an excellent salesman.

TO GET TWO GRIZZLY BEARS FROM YELLOWSTONE

A Double Allotment Because of New Bear Pits Built by City.

Photographs of the new cageless bear pits in Forest Park have won a prize from acting Director Cameron of the National Park Service. Two female grizzly bears will be moved in Yellowstone Park early in the fall and given by the Government to the St. Louis Zoo.

The decision to give the bears to the St. Louis Zoo was announced in Washington yesterday. The request for the bears was made through Congress by Newton of St. Louis, who was told that not more than one bear could be allotted to any city.

The two bears allotted to St. Louis were captured after the end of the season, about Sept. 23.

George E. Dieckman, a member of the Board of Control, yesterday said the city would pay the expense of capturing the bears and transporting them to St. Louis, the estimated cost being $300.

COSTA RICA ASSUMING CONTROL OF COTO

Occupation of District Near Panama Frontier Being Carried Out Under Award.

By the Associated Press.
SAN JOSE, Aug. 25, via San Salvador.—Occupation of Coto, near the Panama frontier, is being carried out by the Costa Rican Government in pursuance of the Loubet-White award.

A manifesto to the people of Panama was issued yesterday by President Porras, in connection with the controversy between Panama and Costa Rica. The President gives a detailed sketch of all the events which led up to the surrender of Coto to Costa Rica and places the blame for this action on the United States government.

"Panama," says the manifesto in part, "protests before the entire world for the acts of violence perpetrated against her, and reserves the right to occupy, whenever opportunity offers, the territory adjudicated to her by the Loubet award and also to make effective all rights originating from an unrepresented act by which Costa Rica violated the existing status quo between the two nations."

"She has violated the rules and practices in vogue among civilized nations, and has violated the League of Nations covenant and violated the spirit of solidarity and fraternity that must exist among the Latin-American countries."

Feeling ran high in Panama yesterday. Disturbances were threatened, as also were hostile manifestations against the Star and Herald.

Panama is mourning for a Month—Over Award to Costa Rica.
By the Associated Press.
PANAMA, Aug. 25.—President Porras signed a decree last night declaring the Republic of Panama in mourning for one month in consequence of the dispute over the award to Costa Rica of territory along the frontier.

Two Arbiters in Panama Issue Named by Taft.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—Chief Justice Taft notified the State Department yesterday that he had appointed John T. Hayford of Northwestern University, and Ora Miner Leland of Cornell University as the two American arbiters provided for in the Porras-Anderson treaty for delimitation of the boundary between Panama and Costa Rica.

The two arbiters named also were selected by the late Chief Justice White but were never called upon to act because of the dispute which arose between Costa Rica and Panama. Costa Rica recently announced Luis Matamoros as its representative and the Government of Panama is expected soon to elect its arbiter.

CONGRESSMEN LEAVING CAPITAL TODAY FOR RECESS

Remain to Study Tax Revision and Tariff Bills in Committees—Both Houses to Reconvene Sept. 21.

REER BILL CENTER OF INTEREST IN SENATE

Measure Put Aside After Long Attack by Reed—Shipping Board Deficiency Bill Passed.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—Senators and Representatives generally left Washington today for a vacation as a result of Congress declaring a three-day recess just before midnight last night. Some will remain, however, to continue committee work, particularly in the case of the Senate Finance Committee, which expects to continue study of the permanent tariff bill and to take up the revision measure.

Both the Senate and House will reconvene Sept. 21, but the latter expects to take three-day recesses until Oct. 3.

Although many had left a few days ago, the Senate was well filled up for adjournment was taken and in the House when the Speaker's gavel fell at 11:58 p. m., there were more than 100 Representatives on the floor. The closing scenes also were unusually quiet, although there had been heated controversies in conference committees in the last hours.

Reed Bill Center of Attention.

In the Senate interest was centered in the anti-beer bill, which, after a prolonged attack by Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri, and Senator Chandler, Democrat, Kentucky, was put aside. Even an effort to make it the unfinished business when the Senate reconvenes was blocked, so that prospects of its passage within a few weeks appeared to some to be faint.

What effect this will have upon the Treasury in reference to the national beer regulations, which have been drafted and await Secretary Mellon's approval for issuance, is expected to be indicated today. Herebefore officials have said the regulations would be issued. If it was expected that Congress did not expect to complete the anti-beer legislation in an early date.

Among the bills passed at the closing session were the agricultural credits measure, the Shipping Board deficiency bill of $45,000,000, with an amendment carrying $200,000 for expenses of the disarmament conference, and the measure extending the embargo until Jan. 1. Enactment of measures was completed by President Harding, who appeared at the Capitol late in the evening for the purpose of affixing his signature to the bills. He was accompanied by Mrs. Harding, who occupied a seat in the Senate gallery and was an interested spectator of the hectic details on the beer bill.

House Marks Time.

The House, for the most part, marked time, as it had only to complete action on conference reports. Opportunity was taken by Representative Mondell, the Republican leader, just before adjournment was moved to revise the accomplishments of the session to date.

"No Congress in American history," he said, "has made a better record of continuous and conscientious consideration of the public business or of meritorious accomplishment in a wide field of legislation than the present Congress."

Commenting on specific legislation passed by the House, the Republican leader declared that the Underwood tariff bill, "which will take from the statute books the makeshift Underwood tariff law, the would have wrecked industry at the protective activities of the country, but for the European war, we would have re-established in America the benefit of every action of the country the equitable and best principles of a Republican protective tariff."

Referring to the tax revision bill, which was sent to the Senate yesterday, Mondell asserted: "The country will welcome a tax measure which immediately and for the present calendar year lifts $250,000,000 taxes from the shoulders of families of moderate income and from the traveling and consuming public."

He said that eventually will lift from the shoulders of our people of every class a sum in excess of $500,000,000.

Sixty-Five Bills Passed.

Sixty-five bills and resolutions were passed, have become law, and Congress met on April 11. Referring to Mondell, Representative Garrett, Tennessee, acting Republican leader, declared that "we

SPORTS SALAD

SOLDIERS FIRST.

A SOLDIER of the Legion was looking for a job.

For every situation there was quite a hungry mob.

This soldier of the Legion who was forced to stand in line and beg for a job, had helped to chase the Germans back across the River Rhine.

He had fought and bled and slumbered in a lousy, stinking ditch.

That profiteers might prosper and grow fabulously rich.

And now to seek employment he was forced to walk the street.

To try and get his family the wherewithal to eat.

Oh, lie upon employers who would turn a soldier down.

When everything is equal, and re-divide the title of world champion.

We hope the time is coming when we'll see them reimbursed.

And all employers greet them with the slogan: "Soldiers First!"

LOOKS LIKE FIRST DIVISION.

Phil Ball, owner of the Browns, has closed a contract to build a $400,000 refrigerating system in and about the port of New York.

In a cold day when they freeze Phil-out.

Ty Cobb as manager of the Tigers has made the discovery that in looking for Cobbs for his ball team the only place to look is the looking glass.

It is reported that the Black Sox will play a series of games in Oklahoma. If they go against some of those oil stock jobbers they will find fomen worthy of their steel.

Donie Bush, so many years a Tiger, has become a Senator. It could have been worse: He might have been made a Congressman.

MAYBE.
President Baker says he has every confidence in Bill Donovan and only changed managers as part of a plan to make the Phillies a winning ball club. But he doesn't divide the top part of his plan.

Maybe he is going to hire a few ball players.

"Lefty" Williams of the Black Sox is said to have played a game with Canton, Ill., under the name of Dean Franklin. He did have the grace not to assume the honored name of Ben.

In the light of his flivver in the case of Dempsey vs. Carpenter, we take it that the news syndicates to sign G. Bernard Shaw to cover the next world's series.

Babe Ruth recently was held to a double out of five trips to the plate in an exhibition game with Indianapolis. Demonstrating that Babe is not a bush league player.

Maybe Babe's policy is when you are in the bushes do as the bushes do.

Manager Wilhelm believes in the Phillies and thinks that next year they will look very good. Well, they might improve with age.

In view of such childlike credulity we wouldn't doubt that Brer Wilhelm still believes in Santa Claus.

Fred Mitchell of the Braves has signed a catcher named Duffy O'Regan. He is said to be of Irish descent.

Strike and Walker reached first. Mann walked. Ford threw out Fournier. Stock flied to Powell. NO RUNS.

BOSTON—Southworth hit to deep right center for a home run. Cruise singled to right. Boeckel flied to Mann. Holke hit. Lavan, who stepped on second, forcing Cruise, and threw to Fournier, doubling Holke. ONE RUN.

EIGHTH INNING.
CARDINALS—Hornsby hit to deep left for a home run, making his eighteenth home run of the season. Schultz tripled to center. Heathcote ran for Schultz. McHenry doubled over Boeckel's head, scoring Heathcote. Lavan walked. Almsmith flied to Southworth. A double steal went through, but Lavan overslid third and was out. O'Neill to Boeckel. Walker fanned. TWO RUNS.

BOSTON—Heathcote went to right field for the Cardinals. Ford singled to left. O'Neill flied to Mann. Nixon batted for Cooney. Ford went to second on a wild pitch. Nixon fanned. Powell tripled to center, forcing Ford. Christenbury batted for Mann. Holke and flied to Mann. ONE RUN.

NINTH INNING.
CARDINALS—Christenbury went to second. Ford moved to short, and McQuillen went into the box for the Browns. Mann fanned. Ford threw out Fournier. Stock was called out on strikes. NO RUNS.

BOSTON—Walker threw out Southworth. Lavan threw out Cruise. McHenry made a great catch of Boeckel's hard drive almost to left field fence. NO RUNS.

HEEDS POLICE WARNING BUT SAFE IS ROBBED

Miller's Instruction About Keeping Light Burning Fails to Prevent Theft.

President Miller of the Police Board some time ago told the Captains to tell the Sergeants to inform their men to request owners of safes to place them in front offices with lights burning over them so that policemen could see them. More recently, when it did not appear that this instruction had percolated through properly, he had the Sergeants before him and told them to tell their men to tell the safe owners.

One of the safe owners that Policeman Tim Sheahan of the Carr Street district told was President Nathan Muskovits of the American Bedding Co., 1810 Morgan street. The safe was placed in sight, with a light burning above it. When Sheahan sauntered past at 1:30 a. m. today the safe was missing and the light was out. He telephoned the district and Lieut. Schiefelbein and a squad of policemen responded. The place was surrounded. A glass panel of a side door was found to have been broken and the door opened. The safe had been moved to the middle of the main floor and opened with a "come-along." Checks and papers were scattered about. Muskovits says there was about $50 in the safe.

Man Arrested by Policeman and Tools Found Near.

Policeman Andreas of the Central District was approaching a hallway on Eleventh near Pine when two men emerged from it. When they saw him they went back. One ran through to the rear of the saloon at 1815 Pine street and escaped. The other was caught. He said he was Eugene Remmy, 33, of 4109 Fairfax avenue. In the hallway the policeman found a bit and handle and chisel. Remmy said he did not know anything about the tools and did not know the other man.

The office of the Mound City Excelsior Co., 3223 South Broadway, was entered early yesterday morning. Order blanks, checks and a hand saw were taken. They were found yesterday in a vacant lot near by.

Peter Kennedy, 4549 Lewis place, a service car driver with a stand at Seventh street and Washington avenue, was approached at 8:45 p. m. by two men who wanted to be taken to the bird cage in Forest Park. On Euclid avenue in front of St. John's Hospital, one of them pushed a revolver against him and ordered him to stop and get out. They took $5 from him and the machine. At 11 o'clock it was found abandoned near the Municipal Theater.

Messenger Boy Robbed. When Sylvester Dieckhaus, 15 years old, messenger for the Central States Life Insurance Co., returned at noon yesterday from the Post-office, most of the letters he brought had been opened. He said two negroes stopped him in front of 3412 Locust street. One held a soft hat over his mouth and they dragged him to the shed in the rear, where one held him while the other went through the mail. Officers of the company say the letters do not appear to have contained any money.

FEDERAL AGENT REPORTS

INCREASE IN UNEMPLOYMENT

E. F. Fader, However, Says This District, Which Includes Missouri, is Least Affected by the Depression.
E. F. Fader, director of Industrial Survey of the United States Department of Labor, who was in St. Louis yesterday for his monthly survey of business conditions, said that observations made this month indicated a continued increase in unemployment in the Northwest Central District, including Missouri. He said that in July a fair improvement was noted in the district between the Rockies and the Mississippi River, but that it was limited to industries directly connected with the harvest, while unemployment increased in general industries, with the exception of the shoe and garment trades.
A comparison with the other districts shows that the Northwest Central District is suffering least from the present general depression, Fader said. This comparative prosperity he attributed to the fact that the main industries in the district are the basic ones connected with agriculture, food packing and clothing manufacturing.
Fader attributed the present dullness in business to a lack of confidence caused by the continued maintenance of high prices and the curtailment of output, in turn due to lack of export trade and unsettled foreign exchange. Unsettled railroad conditions together with the lack of balance between prices prevailing in various industries are also factors, he said.

Photographs of the Great Naval Airship ZR-2, Destroyed With Heavy Loss of Life

The ZR-2, built in England for the United States Navy, leaving her giant hangar at Bedford, England, for a trial flight. It was intended to cross the Atlantic with her with an American crew.

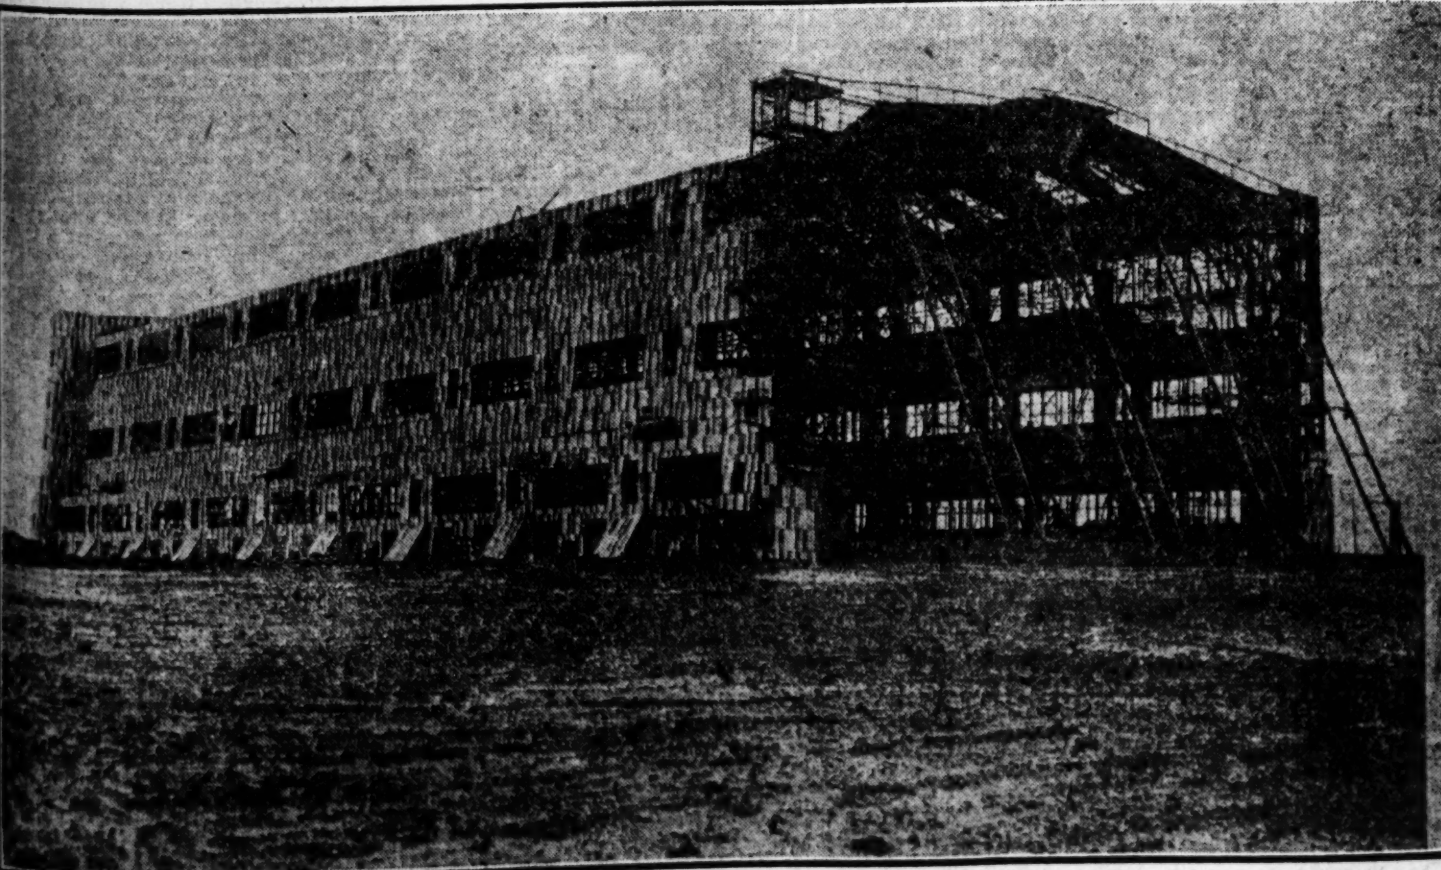

Another view of the ZR-2, on her first flight last month.

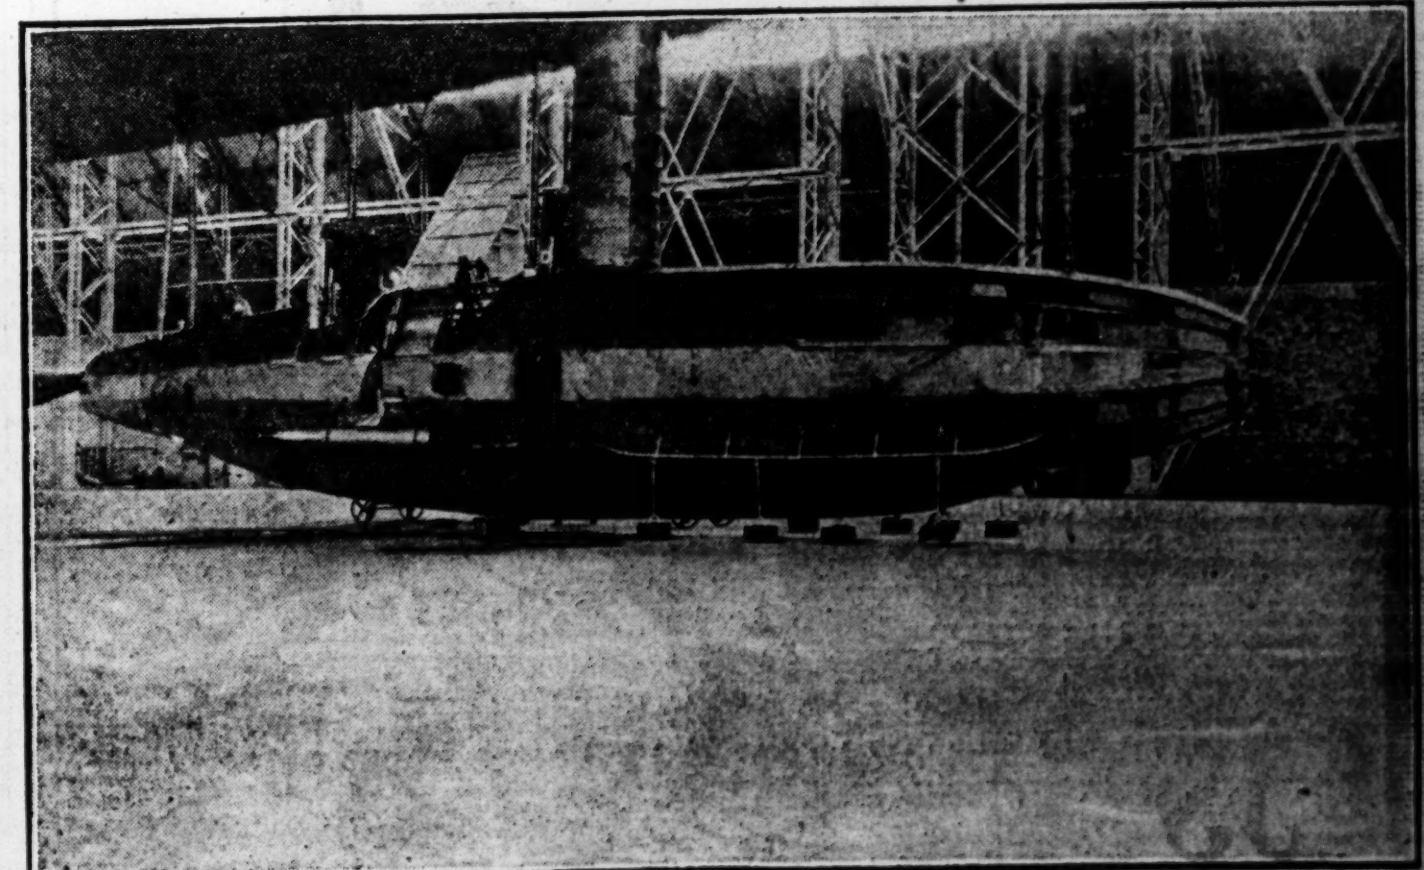

A photograph of the ZR-2 being prepared for her trial flight before being handed over to the American Government.

A view taken within the great framework of the ZR-2.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

The Better Plan.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

PANAMA, like Hayti and San Domingo, is finding out how bad it is to be small and how the weak are discriminated against by the strong, even by that paragon of virtue, Uncle Sam. American marines are now on their way to the isthmus to compel Panama to accept the decision of an arbitrator. We would not deal that way with a strong nation. We do it because we know that we can enforce our will without being seriously resisted. Therefore we do not stand on any ceremony, but simply say "Do it, or we'll make you do it."

That is the attitude we have taken and it should not be a satisfactory one for a nation that pretends to be an exemplar of liberty and peace. In reality, the weaker people to be dealt with, the deeper should be our sense of obligation to respect national sentiment and pride and to observe every form of international courtesy. How much better it would have been if, as a member of the League of Nations, we had referred this controversy between Central American States to the league and thus brought to bear upon the litigants the judgment of practically the world instead of our individual one. L. R. JOHNSON.

Cape Girardeau.

"Watch the Machine."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

LAST Sunday the writer had the pleasure of witnessing our Browns trim the Yankees two games, only to have the afternoon's enjoyment marred after leaving the park by finding the lights on his machine turned on in full and in gear. This spiteful work was evidently the result of refusing the privilege to countless hordes of boys to "watch the machine" while attending the nevolence in face of the city ordinance forbidding this nuisance which the police are not making any apparent attempt

Here's a Chance.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

IF there is within the State of Missouri

a retired naval officer, or an ex-service man from the U. S. Naval Reserve Force,

Marine Corps, or army, who is imbued with the spirit of patriotism sufficient to volunteer his services as a commodore,

Department of Missouri, U. S. Junior

Naval Reserve, a State organization may be quickly brought about, and thousands of Missouri boys, over the age of 14, may be enrolled to derive the advantages of a membership in the Junior Naval Reserve may insure to the wide-awake young men of America, who realize more than some of their elders the vital need of training for sea service in the navy and the merchant marine.

If there is a single volunteer in Missouri willing and capable of leading in this great patriotic work, the reserve extends to him a cordial invitation to wire

his name and address to national headquarters.

This movement has the official stamp of approval of 48 state governors. Many prominent Missourians are encouraging and supporting the movement.

When chosen as one of the honorary vice presidents of the U. S. Junior Naval

Why not have an ordinance passed call-

Carbolic Antidotes.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

IN last night's edition and also in a morning paper a statement appeared concerning the use of alcohol in the treatment of phenol poisoning in which a physician at Monett, Mo., states that lack of alcohol caused the death of a child from that cause.

Dr. J. W. Holland, professor of medical chemistry and toxicology, Jefferson

Medical College, and who has, among other degrees, those of M. D., A. M. and Sc. D., says ("A text-book of Medical Chemistry and Toxicology," page 460):

"Dependence should not be placed on alcohol as an antidote" and this is in italics.

He further says that "The antidotes of approved value are sodium sulphate, raw eggs, milk and saccharate of lime."

Any physician should have access to all of these, as well as a soft stomach pump. A. G. HALTERMAN.

THE LOSS OF THE ZR-2.

The giant hangar at Lakehurst, N. J., built for the ZR-2, will never receive its new "bride." The greatest dirigible in the world, built in England at a cost of $2,000,000, will never be delivered to its new owner. The work of three years lies a wreck in the Humber River, and with it an American crew of 16 who, for the past several months, had been training for the transatlantic trip that the air vessel was never to take.

The end of the ZR-2, with a loss of life that makes it one of the great tragedies of the air, is a crushing blow to aerial expectation. The fact, too, that the specific cause may never be determined will aggravate uncertainty and furnish copious theses of doubt. But the discouragement in the circles of science and daring will be but momentary. So much has been accomplished in the "fourth dimension" of adventure that disaster, whatever its magnitude, cannot stay purpose or progress. The fruit of this tragedy will be fresh stimulation to ingenuity and determination.

Congress voted for the purchase of the British airship, undoubtedly, because of the reputation of British aeronautics established by the successful voyage of its predecessor and model, the R-34, the first dirigible to cross the Atlantic. The turn of events has proved that we might better have been training our own engineers and craftsmen to build our air vessels in this country.

With the principles of lighter-than-air, power-propelled aeronautics established and confirmed by years of practice, faulty calculation and apportionment of strength in a craft of such importance as the ZR-2 would be surprising. There can be no standards of aeronautics until there is safety and dependability of construction. Short-cut practices cannot but result in loss of life and property as well as in loss rather than intended gain of time in the development of the science.

THE SECRET OF THE MOUNDS.

This, the Mound City, will watch with a peculiarly sympathetic interest the proposed exploration of the Cahokia Mounds by Warren K. Moorehead, a noted archaeologist from the East.

It is a reproach to the culture of America that during all the years that excavations in Europe and Asia have been yielding invaluable contributions to history, the Mounds, most imposing and promising relics of an ancient American civilization, have been untouched by the hand of scientific inquiry. If we except a few superficial examinations. It was once actually proposed to level the mounds to get dirt for filling up adjacent building sites—a desecration beside which Caesar's clay stopping a crack would seem trivial!

No doubt many St. Louisans will join in contributing to the much needed funds to carry on the work. Far from being fanciful, there is genuine basis for believing that such an inquiry may establish that St. Louis and the surrounding region was once the seat of the highest civilization in America. Such discovery would be more than gratifying; it would be inspiring.

Silver certificates are coming back into circulation and we don't care how many come our way.

APOLLO IN CONGRESS.

Representative Herrick of Oklahoma, by his own rating 80 per cent handsome, 98 per cent physically perfect, morally blameless, the one man in 1000 worthy of "the bride they get," the future President (within eight years) of the United States, really, we are sure, years less in his heart for the redemption of the world from newspaper beauty contests than for a girl.

We might feel sorry for the fair nibblers who were so beguiled by this wooing Walton's lure that it took an appeal to the postal authorities to bring out his identity. But there is to be no tender thought for a lonely Congressman of Apollonian features and Atean form, moral, worthy and destined to a great future, who wants a girl so badly that he is willing to take his pick from 50 of Washington's most gorgeous nymphs?

Such a choice, it cannot be doubted, would be a deadly hazard for the chosen. A bride who would occasionally miss an evening sitting at his feet and reminding him of his Homeric qualities surely would drive him to the instigation of more legislation that, for one reason or another, would find its way to the front page.

As to the peril that besets the young girl who presents her charms to the world through newspaper contests, it seems to us that Congressman Herrick has quite disproven his case. He has shown the girls to what pinnacles of fortune the adventure may lead. And he has neglected to show that the wisdom of mamma, when put to the test, is not a match for the amorous antics of future Presidents.

Officer, if the President of the board bothers you too much call a policeman.

LODGE'S UNFITNESS.

President Harding's appointment of Senator Lodge as a delegate to the disarmament conference was unwise, as has just been demonstrated by the appointee himself in his opposition to Senator Harrison's proposal that the American delegation demand open sessions.

The Senator's derisive comments on President Wilson's failure at Versailles to secure "open covenants openly arrived at" may be dismissed as bad manners, but Mr. Lodge is palpably insincere when he thus expostulates: "To say that we shall never meet behind closed doors, or that one delegate shall not talk privately to another concerning our problems is, of course, proposing a system we all know to be impossible and impracticable."

Nobody has made such proposal. The impossible, impracticable system described by Senator Lodge is Senator Lodge's own willful misconstruction of a motion to substitute honest, rational publicity for the traditional intrigue of star-chamber diplomacy.

What Senator Harrison had in mind in his suggestion for open sessions—a suggestion previously made by Senator Capper and approved by Senator Borah—was well expressed by Lord Bryce in an address at the Williams College Institute of Politics: "It must be admitted," he said, "that foreign negotiations cannot be conducted and the executive acts they require cannot be determined by a popular assembly, or even by a deliberate council too large for familiar discussion; nor, indeed, by any body sitting constantly in public. Nevertheless there arise certain broad and comparatively simple issues on which the people ought to be consulted before any irrevocable step is taken and on which the judgment of the people is more likely to be right than that of the ministers or officials conducting the negotiations."

The disarmament conference is precisely in point. Its paramount issue is "broad and simple." Shall we stop squandering the people's bread and butter on battleships? Let it be emphasized that bread and butter is not used figuratively, but literally. On such an issue Lord Bryce is eminently right in asserting that "the people's judgment is more likely to be right than that of the ministers or officials conducting the negotiations." And he is religiously right when he declares that, on such an issue, "the people ought to be consulted before any irrevocable step is taken."

It is in that spirit the delegates to the disarmament conference should approach their task, but that is a mental height which Senator Lodge can never vision, much less attain.

Former soldiers are causing a bushel of trouble for Maj. Peck.

OUR TRADUCED TEETH.

At last a voice is raised in defense of our traduced teeth and against the fad of attributing almost every ailment that could not be otherwise conveniently accounted for to dental defects.

Dr. J. F. Biddle of the University of Pittsburgh, addressing the National Dental Association at Milwaukee, declared that more than 50 per cent of the teeth now being extracted could be saved. He severely condemns the practice of pulling teeth for all the ills that flesh is heir to. Teeth, he admits, are in many cases the source of disease and their extraction in many cases has resulted in cures which seem almost miraculous, but that does not justify promiscuous extraction.

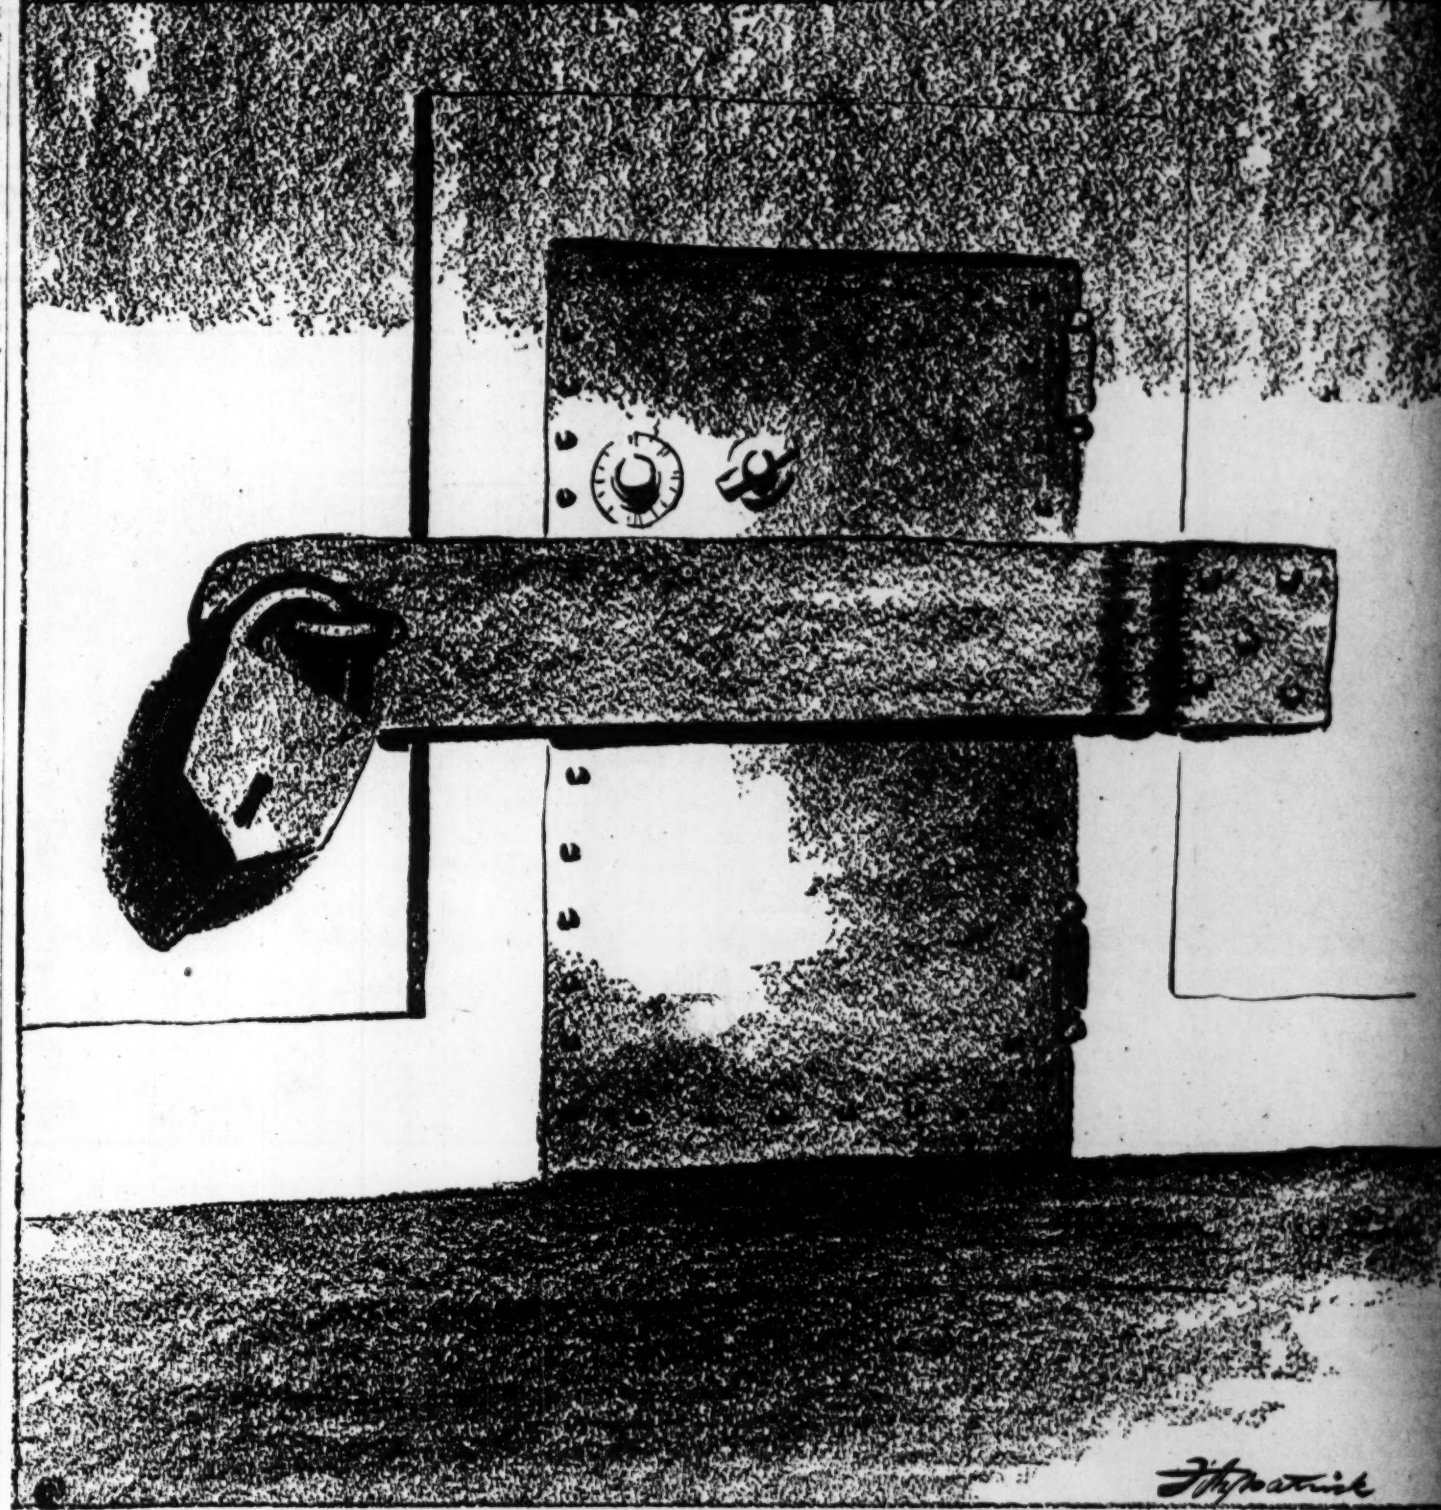

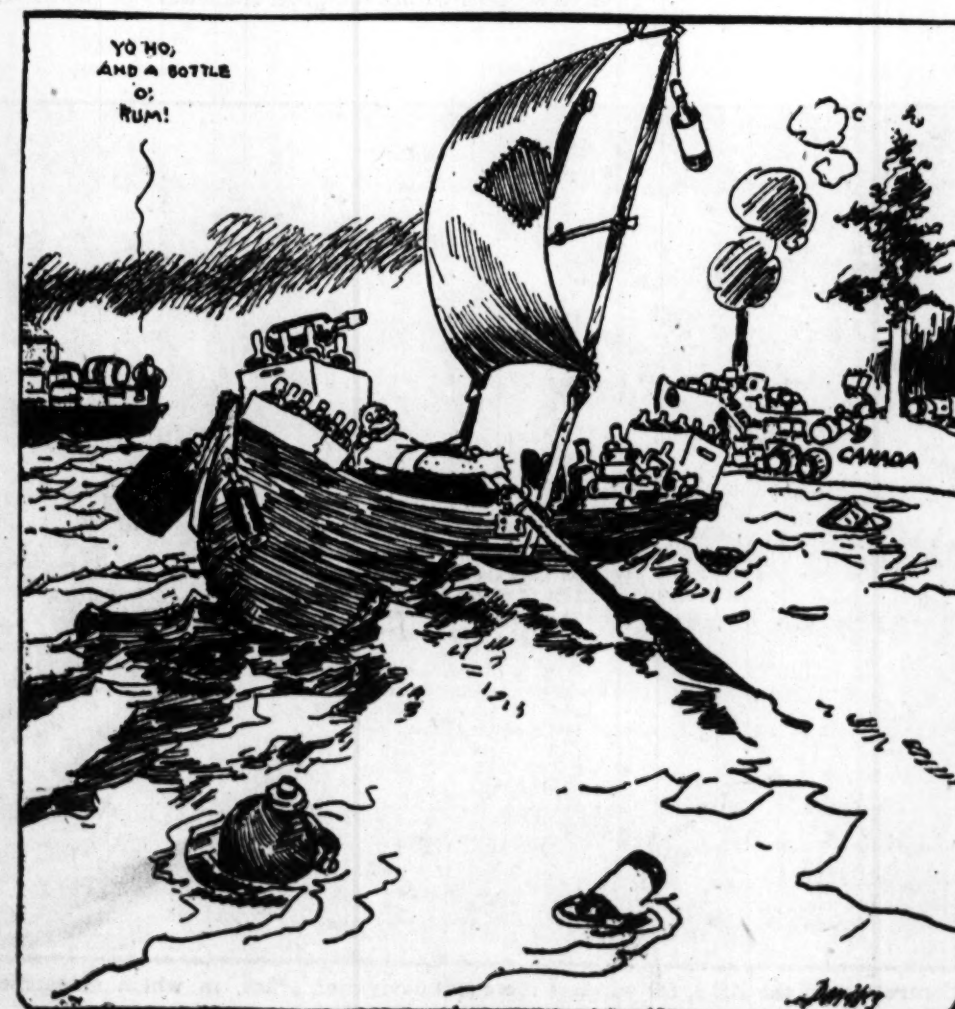

Not the least of the evils of the tooth epidemic has been the promptness with which dentists, rising to the opportunity created by ascribing universal malignancy to the teeth, have increased their fees to fabulous proportions. Perhaps if teeth are again charged with none but the ills for which they are to blame, the charges for treating them will correspondingly diminish.

Trouble is brewing for the Anti-Saloon League.

It would seem that big game is as easy to bring down as small game if the hunter has the right kind of swindle gun.

HOMEWARD BOUND.

(From the Cleveland Plain Dealer.)

OPENLY ARRIVING AT THE TREATY OF BERLIN.

JUST A MINUTE

Written for the POST-DISPATCH
by Clark McAdams

"T" BEGINS to look as if the drys would have to admit the failure of prohibition," Mr. Antwerp said.

"It has always been a failure, and the Volstead act speeded its collapse by imposing strictures which could not possibly be enforced with public opinion against them."

"The test of the matter has come in the fight over the right of search without a warrant. This is a matter that always excites Congress, which has related numberless attacks upon one's constitutional right to go undisturbed in one's home unless the invader is armed with a warrant. Presumably one does not get a warrant except by showing good reason for believing that there is a violation of law. The Constitution clearly forbids that without such a defense the home would be overrun at will by sheriffs and bailiffs without semblance of justification."

"Very well. This is the pass to which prohibition has come. The drys say they cannot make it effective if warrants are required, which is a confession that prohibition has not enough public sentiment behind it to be constitutionally enforceable."

"The truth is that while the people are against the liquor business they are not against the bootlegger. There is a difference between commercialized liquor and liquor made for home consumption. The one gave us the saloon, the liquor man in politics and the effrontery of an evil legalized by license. The other merely gives us something to drink."

"Prohibition in the United States, which more than one foreign visitor has said makes us the laughing stock of the world, is at this time passing into its second phase. In the first phase the bootlegger controlled the situation. An even worse class than formerly kept the bad saloons open by bootlegging. People who would cut your throat for a quarter have made comfortable fortunes within a short while and are away at this season in their Rolls-Royce machines seeing California and the big trees."

"In the second phase we see the resourceful citizen of the republic making his own liquor. It has taken him a while to learn how to do it, and as soon as he masters the art the harvest of the bootlegger will be over. Congress, meanwhile, cannot give the drys permission to invade the home without a warrant, because if it does the United States Supreme Court will hold the act unconstitutional."

"This is all prohibition could come to, and it seems to be there. The drys probably will not admit it, but if you will look in the dictionary you will find 'fanatic' defined as one who doesn't know when he is licked."

Human nature has more to do with the rumrun in Central America than anything else. Panama would let Costa Rica have the territory awarded her by the Loubet and White decisions, but it is not going to be easy to live beside Costa Rica after handing it over. That is a bitter pill to swallow, and the Panamanians will have to be given time to get it down.

Mr. Harding signed on yesterday the Capper-Tincher bill, which is supposed to help the farmer by holding the grain exchanges with a tight rein. We will wager that the President would give one of his silk hats to know whether the farmer can be benefited in this way, as we would give a pretty penny to know ourselves. The grain men say it is all nonsense. They credit themselves with boosting the price of farm products, and in view of what has happened to cotton, in which the exchanges are not a very lively factor, we somehow cannot feel that the Capper-Tincher law will leave the farmer about where he was.

The ZR-2, a great dirigible built for the American navy in England, was destroyed by an explosion while on her trial trip yesterday, causing the death of 27 officers and men of the British navy and 16 officers and men of the American navy. Thus do we destroy ourselves in times of peace preparing for war. The air service everywhere has left a terrible trail of death among those seeking to make it more effective, but we count the cost nothing if there is discovered a deadlier weapon of war.

The author of "Mirrors of Washington" says of Mr. Wilson that "He forgot that man cannot be God." Upon the contrary, probably none of us has known better than Mr. Wilson the amazing failures of humankind to rise to the ideals of those to whom we owe most human progress. The fine thing is that they have not lost faith in us despite our inadequacy. It must mean something.

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

This column is designed to reproduce within the latest comment by the leading publicists, newspapers and periodicals on the questions of the day.

BEAUTY CONTESTS.

From the New York Herald.

A MEMBER from Oklahoma, Mr. Herrick, told the House of Representatives that beauty contests are a peril to the nation. He would stop them with legislation before the much-disputed American girl "drifts further afield from home life."

Beauty contests are a source of enjoyment to many ladies who do not enter them at all. When the winner's picture is printed, they scrutinize it and say, sometimes out loud: "Well, if she's a prize beauty there certainly is hope for me!"

Only one beauty contest that we ever heard of caused much trouble. In that case, when all three contestants tried to bribe the judge and he was weak enough to yield, the consequences were exciting that a reporter named Homer wrote many columns about it. Mr. Herrick might better stop his case by reading the illad into the Congressional Record. Or he could send the sergeant-at-arms to Olympus with subpoena for Paris, alias Alexander, the corrupt judge, and at least one of the contestants. Aphrodite preferred Congress should have the facts about the golden apple contest from original sources.

BRITISH RAILWAYS.

From the Montreal Gazette.

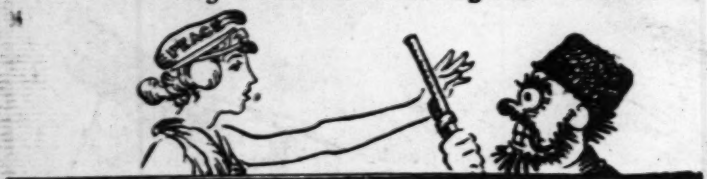

THE British Government and Parliament appear to have made up their minds to enact legislation providing for the administration of the railways upon the plan outlined some time ago in a plan which provides for public control without public ownership. The private owners are to be permitted to leave their capital in the enterprises, which appears to be pretty nearly the limit of their privilege. The bill which is to group the railways provides for the method of their administration, the control of their rates, etc., has been under consideration for some time by two standing committees of the House of Commons and is now ready for the final legislative stage.

Passage will establish what is virtually a system of state operation at the expense of private capital, and conditions which have been created under Government control will presumably be continued. The railways bill establishes what amounts to a state monopoly in the United Kingdom, although the promise is made that a rate tribunal is to establish, immediately upon the passage of the bill, rates which will secure to the investor a return equal to that of 1915. Critics of the measure, having regard to the greatly increased costs of operation under state control, do not believe that any such return can be secured except upon the basis of rates which will constitute an intolerable burden upon industry.

CHILDREN AND TAX EXEMPTION.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

By James J. Montague.

CRUEL AND UNUSUAL

The Bulgarian army is to be disbanded by order of the League of Nations.

The German, when told to disarm,
Though he made quite a bit of a row,
Went back to the mill and the farm,
And is working there placidly now.
Though his choice was to swabbel over the map,
And stir up the various nations,
The German is rather a versatile chap,
Knowing plenty of peaceful vocations.

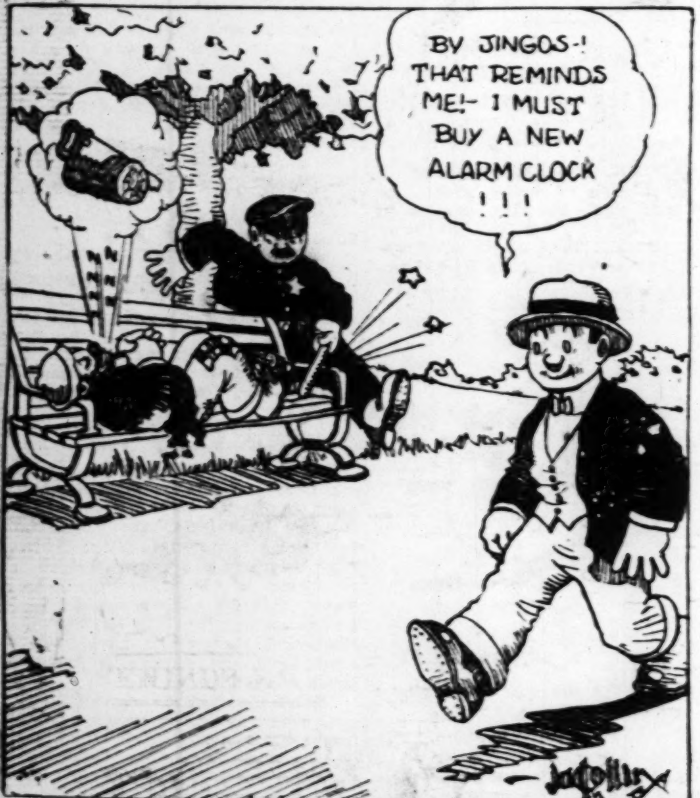

When we say to the terrible Turk
That he'll have to quit fighting and seek
Some quieter method of work
Than shooting off guns at the Greek,
He will munch his pilaff in his happy harem,
With calm and contented enjoyment,
No longer of bloodshed and conquest he'll dream
But get busy with useful employment.

But take from the Bulgar the blade
And the rifle he used on his foes,
And you rob the poor chap of his trade.
For fighting is all that he knows.
Bulgarian babies are born midst alarms
Of cannon and musketry rattle.
As soon as they're weaned they're provided with arms
And hurried away to a battle.

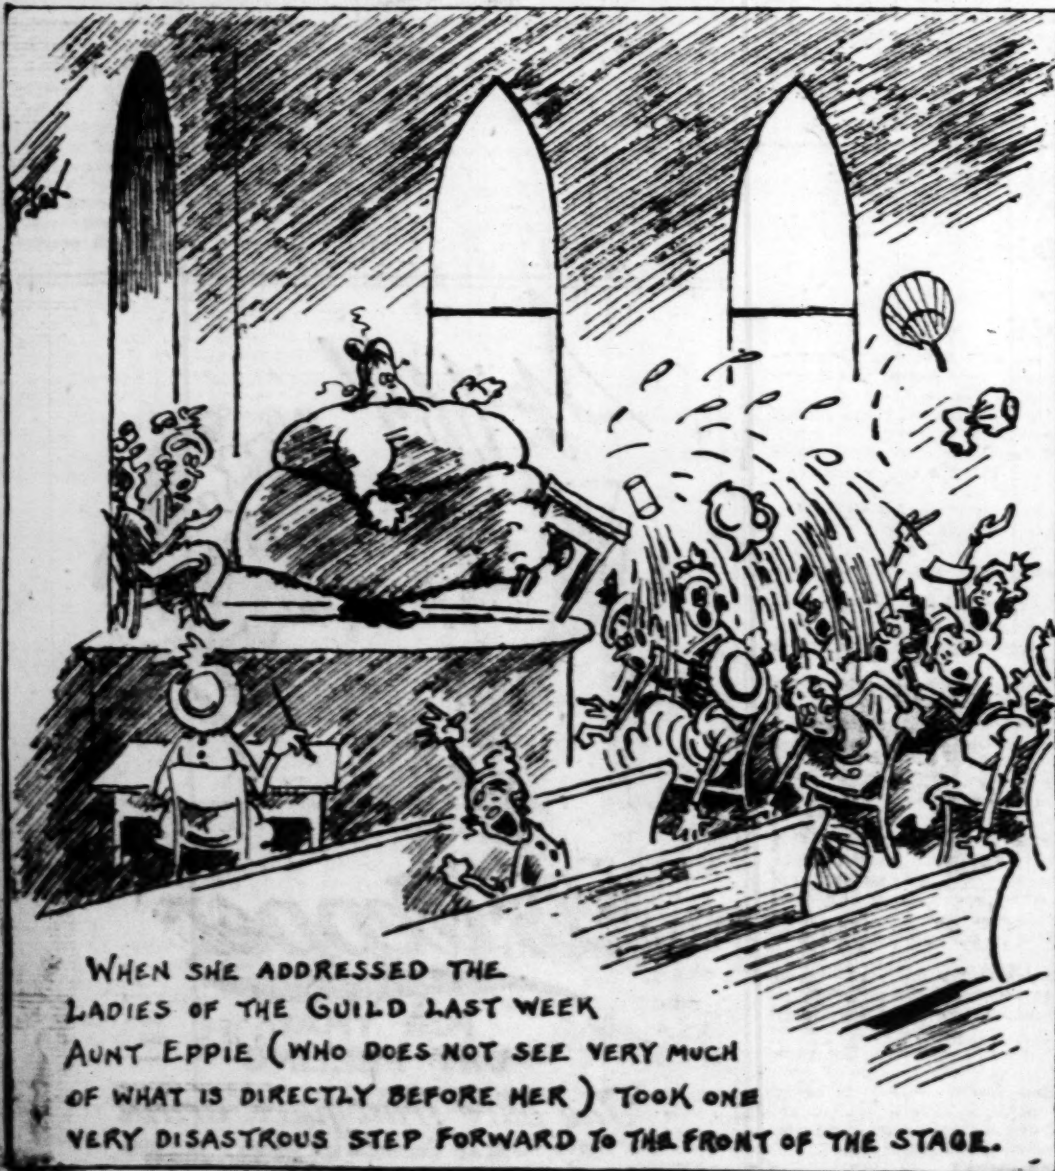

Some peoples could live without war
And battle and murder and death,
But to Bulgars the shedding of gore
Is essential as drawing their breath.
Deprive their brave men of the only career
They ever can follow and cherish,
Debar them from war, and inside of a year,
The unhappy nation will perish!
